To Begin Work on Streets

Schoonmaker and Donner Repavings On Agenda for Highway Dept.

Two Monessen streets are still on the State Highway Department's summer construction agenda.

District Engineer N. G. Bell of Uniontown, promised today that both Donner and Schoonmaker avenues will be improved in the "next couple of months."

Bell said plans have been completed for the widening of Schoonmaker Ave., from Sixth to 12th streets. He predicted actual work on the project will start the latter part of August.

The new section of Schoonmaker will be concrete and will conform to the previously improved stretch from Sixth St. to Seneca St., Bell said.

Money Allocated

Money for the resurfacing of Donner Ave. has already been allocated, according to Bell. That project will begin as soon as old street car rails are removed.

"The entire resurfacing job on Donner shouldn't take more than eight or ten working days," Bell disclosed.

Here's a rundown on other highway improvements in the district:

MONESSEN-WEBSTER ROAD — Survey is now well under way. Actual construction will probably begin in early 1958. Plans still call for a four-lane divided highway, with "benching" on rock cliff.

ROUTE 51 — Survey and plans for Route 51 from the Allegheny County line through Westmoreland County to the Fayette line are about 70 per cent complete. Some sections of the proposed four-lane road will be separated. Bell declined to guess on when actual construction will start.

EXPRESS HIGHWAY — Several sections, including stretch over Youghiogheny River near Smithton, now under construction. The Smithton bridge is about 70 per cent completed. Entire highway from New Stanton to Washington, Pa., should be ready by 1959.

ROUTE 88 — Resurfacing and widening operations are about complete from Charleroi to Donora. Bell estimated that the work will be concluded within the next three weeks.

Big Surplus in Federal Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government ended fiscal 1957 with a surplus of $1,645,000,000 the Treasury Department announced today.

This compared with a $1,626,000,000 surplus in fiscal 1956.

Treasury receipts in the 1957 fiscal year, which ended June 30, were $70,989,000,000. Expenditures were $69,344,000,000.

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey and Budget Director Percival F. Brundage said in a joint statement that receipts were $361,000 000 higher than estimated in January. Budget expenditures were $444,000,000 higher than estimated in January, "mainly due to larger expenditures for the Department of Defense which were not fully offset by lower expenditures in other departments."

Horses for Courses

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Richard Boone, star of CBS-TV's fall Western series, "Have Gun — Will Travel," knows a trend when he sees one. He includes horseback riding in the subjects for his own drama school. "Where would an actor be in this town if he couldn't ride a horse?' Boone asked.

'FIRST NIGHT 'COOK-OUT' — These three Boy Scouts, all members of Troop 3, are cooking out their first evening meal following completion of the first leg of a 50-mile hike to Camp Conestoga started yesterday morning by Troop Scoutmaster Ray Purks and 10 explorers. The boys halted their long trek near Alverton last evening, about 21 miles from Monessen. These boys are (l. to r.) John Lender Jr., Robert Gillingham and John A. Dragan.

Five Stand on Ground Under Nuclear Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) —Five Air Force officers from Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., stood on the ground immediately under today's nuclear weapons test to prove that civilians could survive beneath an air burst.

The officers, who called themselves the City of Ground Zero, elected one of their members mayor and stood on the ground with no protection whatsoever from the blast.

They wore only Air Force summer uniforms. They had no protective goggles or no other cover. After the shot they were to be airlifted by helicopter for a news conference.

The citizens of Ground Zero were Col. Sidney Bruce, of Durango, Colo., the mayor; Maj. John Hughes, McKeesport, Pa., Maj. Norman Bodinger, Ridgefield, N. J.; Maj. Donald Luttrell, Dallas, Tex., and Lt. Col. Frank Ball, of Washington, D. C.

Crumbling Dam Threatening to Flood Canyon

CAPULIN, Colo. (UP)—Watchers on the hillside above the huge Terrace Reservoir earthen dam flashed word today—the dam is holding.

The crumbling dam had threatened to send nearly six billion gallons of water down Alamosa Canyon since Thursday morning when a gushing hole formed in the 198-foot high dam.

Rain-swollen waters of the reservoir spurted from the break at a rate of seven cubic feet a second and etched away at the packed earth structure.

Residents of this San Louis Valley town of 400 were evacuated from their homes. Other valley residents also headed for high ground. But they were expected to return home today with word the dam was holding.

Colorado state engineer J. E. Whitten and district engineer David Mathias said the weak point in the dam, through which water began flowing early Thursday, had not become any larger in the past 12 hours.

'MY ACHING FEET' — That's what Ralph Krasik had to say as he finished the first 21 miles of a 50-mile hike last evening near Alverton. He is shown here putting something soothing on his tired feet. The boys, all members of Boy Scout Troop 3, plan to reach Camp Conestoga sometime tomorrow.

Expert Says Pinball Machines Adjustable

A research associate at Penn State University spent more than two hours yesterday explaining the operation of pinball machines to Fayette County Court.

The testimony was offered during a test case in Uniontown which will probably decide the legality of the multiple-coin type pinball machines.

Harold L. Ergott, Jr., affiliated with the Dept. of Electrical Engineering at Penn State, told the court he had spent more than 42 hours examining the 41 machines confiscated by state police during raids on June 20 in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville.

Ergott read a technical report on the operations of the pinball machines, then gave the court, a first hand demonstration, by actually playing the devices.

Manipulate Chances

Ergott contended that it is possible to adjust the relays so as to manipulate the player's chances.

He played several theoretical games in support of his testimony when defense attorney's objected to his statements.

Defense Attorney Louis Grosso is expected to contend that the devices are "games of skill."

In testimony earlier yesterday,

Scout Jamboree Officially Ends

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UP)—The fourth National Boy Scout jamboree ended Thursday night with an impressive candlelight ceremony of rededication to the principles of the Boy Scout oath.

The big job of moving the mass of scouts and their equipment to their homes across the nation began in the early hours of the morning and continued through the day.

The scouts who came from the farthest parts of the country were allowed to strike camp and pack ahead of the rest who embarked on last minute trips to Philadelphia for a tour of the many historic shrines.

The big closing show, based on the theme of world friendship, paid honor to Lord Robert Baden-Powell who founded the first troop in England.

Uncle Sam Doesn't Like Woolly Dollars

WASHINGTON (UP)— Uncle Sam doesn't like people to whip up dollar bills on their own even in the form of a six-foot rug.

The Secret Service emphasized the point Thursday when it made a nearby suburban dry cleaner remove from his window an Iranian rug that looked like an outdated one dollar bill.

Dry cleaner Alex George first put the three-by-six-foot woolly buck on display in his Arlington, Va., store.

The Secret Service told him to remove it or face unpleasantness for possession of a facsimile of U.S. currency. The Secret Service wanted to know who owned the rug.

George refused to disclose the owner's name. He said the relationship between a dry cleaner and his clients is sacred.

But after talking with his lawyers he removed the rug—to a window in his Silver Spring, Md., store.

"They said I should take it to Maryland where we know the laws better," he said.

The Secret Service turned up in Maryland, too. They still didn't think much of the rug being displayed.

George reluctantly surrendered. He promised to remove the rug from his window if the Secret Service would stop asking the name of the rug's owner.

"I don't see what harm it could do to the American dollar to have it on display," George said morosely. "Who could spend a rug?"

Leader Approves Bill to Build Water Reservoir

New Confession May Be Enough to Get Sheppard Released

DELAND, Fla. (UP) — A blond, husky-haired convict's claim that he killed a Cleveland woman on the night Marilyn Sheppard was slain raised the possibility that her husband might gain his freedom.

The future of Dr. Samuel Sheppard, now serving a life term for the slaying of Marilyn, depended on whether Joseph Wedler, the convict, could prove he was the killer.

Wedler, 23, has told Deland authorities he clubbed a Cleveland woman to death about the time Mrs. Sheppard died on July 4, 1954 in her fashionable Bay Village home.

If Wedler can convince skeptical Cleveland authorities, who have been deluged with confessions from crackpots and hoaxers, that he may have been the killer, Sheppard's family could move technically to free Dr. Sam by getting him paroled on good behavior.

Wedler's claims, though ridiculed by Cleveland police, received some support from a lie detector expert who questioned him alone Thursday.

May Be Truth

Alex Gregory, the expert, said Wedler "is either telling the truth or what he believes to be the truth about the murder of Marilyn Sheppard."

Sheppard denied throughout the trial that he killed Marilyn, testifying that a bushy-haired man committed the crime and then attacked him.

Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert, who was Sheppard's co-defense counsel, said action would be taken if Wedler can be more concretely connected with the slaying of Marilyn.

Wedler willingly submitted to the lie tests, but declined a news interview.

Sheriff Rodney B. Thursby of Volusia County said he has been marking time until he receives from Cleveland authorities a promised list of questions intended to clear up discrepancies between Wedler's confession and known facts of the sensational slaying.

"I haven't heard a thing from them," Thursby said. "I think it would be a good idea if they would send us some questions. I'm still hopeful."

Withholds Questions

Gregory, polygraph expert for detective fiction writer Erle Stanley Gardner's so-called "Court of Last Resort," declined to discuss the questions he fired at Wedler, who claimed he had slain a woman three years ago while burglarizing a fashionable suburban Cleveland home.

Gregory said he questioned Wedler specifically about the Sheppard murder for the first time at Thursday's four-hour session.

Only Gregory and Wedler were in the room where the examina-

Jet Training Plane Explodes Over Residences

WORCESTER, Mass. (UP) — A jet training plane exploded over a residential area Thursday, killing both crewmen and spewing flaming fuel and hot metal fragments for a block.

Fire officials said it was "a miracle" that no one in the area was killed or injured. Many persons were shaken, however.

Six homes ewre set ablaze by the hot fuel. One, in front of which the plane crashed was destroyed by flames.

Killed were the pilot, 1st Lt. Lawrence C. Guild, 26, of Quincy, and Capt. John F. Murphy Jr., 32, of Worcester.

Guild's body was found strapped in his seat of the T33 jet, attached to the 133rd Air National Guard unit at Grenier Air Force Base at Manchester, N.H. Murphy's body was found in a yard, 100 feet from the crash scene.

Air Force investigators said it appeared that Guild was trying to land in Indian Lake, a few hundred yards from where the aircraft crashed.

Witnesses said the plane suddenly went into a sharp spin, plunging into a yard along the tree-lined street. The craft then caromed 40 feet into the air and exploded, showering the area with blazing fuel.

Residents fought the flames with garden hoses until firemen arrived.

Fire chief Herbert Travers said children usually played ball in the street about the time the crash occurred. Fortunately, the street was empty when the jet plunged to earth.

Gypsy Swindler Gets Term in State Prison

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Frank Yonko, member of a gypsy group accused of obtaining $21,000 in 41 automobile insurance swindles throughout the country, was sentenced to a prison term of 10 to 20 months Thursday.

Yonko, 25, giving his latest address as Cleveland, pleaded guilty to two false accident claim charges. Insurance company investigator George Brubach said Yonko and three of his brothers, or cousins, participated in three phony accidents here in November, 1954.

Following the "accidents," the men would feign injury and claim insurance compensation, Brubach said.

The investigator said their method was to stop an old car suddenly in front or beside a truck as it was about to make a turn. They usually claimed they were florced to slow down to avoid hitting a dog, he said.

In the three Pittsburgh incidents, the four settled for $650 for injuies and $195 for car damage, Brubach added.

The four suspects left here after being released on bond, according to the investigator. Yonko was arrested in Detroit last May on a similar charge. The others are still at large.

Two Accidents In Belle Vernon Are Similar

Two similar auto accidents kept Belle Vernon Police Chief Vince Isenberg from getting much sleep last night.

Isenberg reported that James Doyle, 37, of 82 S. Terrace, Brownsville, suffered facial cuts and bruises when his car struck two parked vehicles about 10:45 p. m.

Isenberg said the mishap occurred on Main St. near Blind Lane. The parked cars were owned by Rose Tiano, 565 Main St. and Felix Ricci, 918 Broad Ave., both of Belle Vernon.

Damage to the three cars was estimated at $500.

At 4 a. m. this morning, James Crilley of Belle Vernon R. D. 1, struck a parked car on Main St. near First St., according to Isenberg.

The parked car was owned by Harry Murphy, 101 Main St., Belle Vernon. Damage was estimated at $300.

Isenberg said neither driver could offer an explanation for the mishaps.

Riviera Express Train Crashes; 11 Are Killed

BOLLENE, France (UP)—An express train carrying Riviera vacationers back to Paris left the tracks at 70 miles an hour here today, killing at least 11 persons and injuring more than 80 others.

The train was derailed after it hurtled off the main line and down a side track just outside this small southern France town 72 miles northwest of Marseilles.

The locomotive and ten cars left the tracks. An overturned sleeper was rammed through the engine's tender by the force of the crash.

Cause of the accident was unknown, but rail officials said it was believed the express was shunted down a side track either by a switchman's mistake or a failure of a switch itself.

One of the victims dropped dead after he phoned his wife he was unhurt. He was believed to have been the victim of a heart attack.

Parente Files Appeal In Nomination Case

Attorneys for Mayor Hugo Parente were expected to file exceptions today with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to a majority decision of the Westmoreland County Court, which, in effect, certified John R. Stieska as the lawful Republican nominee for mayor of Monessen.

The County Court, sitting en banc, officially filed in favor of Stieska yesterday afternoon.

As expected, attorneys for Parente announced they would appeal to the state Supreme Court today.

Judge Richard Laird and Judge Charles D. Copeland comprised the majority decision of the County Court, while Judge John M. O'Connell submitted a lengthy dissenting opinion.

The majority decision upheld a former ruling by Judge Laird, in which he reversed an earlier opinion by the County Election Board.

At issue in the legal dispute is whether the County Elections Board should or should not cumulate write-in and sticker votes cast on voting machines regardless of how the candidate's name is spelled.

Acting on the advice of its solicitor, the Election Board ruled that only votes with the name's properly spelled could be counted. On that basis, Parente won the nomination, 70-58.

But Judge Laird overruled, contending that all votes should be counted regardless of how the names are spelled or abbreviated. Under that interpretation, Stieska won, 170 to 149.

The majority opinion of the court conforms with Judge Laird's previous ruling, holding that the votes should be counted if the intent of the voter is clear.

In his dissenting opinion, Judge O'Connell argued that different rules apply to paper ballots and voting machines. He pointed out that voting rules are statuatory.

A dispute of this type involving voting machines has never before reached the State Supreme Court.

Power Is Given to Authority

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed enabling legislation to permit construction of a 250 million dollar reservoir system in southwestern Pennsylvania.

The measure granted sweeping powers to organize water supply authorities, including the power of eminent domain allowing the condemnation of all property except that owned by the state or federal governments.

The legislation, sponsored by a group of state senators headed by Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland) allows the American Waterworks Co. to construct the system to serve industries in six counties.

The waterworks, formed by John Ware, Philadelphia, would build dams in Somerset, Fayette and Westmoreland counties. Plans call for the system to also serve water to communities in Allegheny, Washington and Greene counties.

Condemn Property

The measure provides that water supply authorities could have a 75 year corporate existence and issue bonds for terms up to 65 years. The authorities would have the right to acquire fees and interests in land, and take over subsurface, mining and mineral rights. They also were empowered to condemn property of municipalities, authorities, public service companies, churches and burial grounds after securing court approval.

Power to use public rights of way for location of facilities also was granted along with authority to sell water if they do not compete with existing private enterprise.

Leader said the wide powers were necessary for the organization and efficient operation of a large scale water supply business. He pointed out the authorities would "inevitably" flood large tracts of land in forming reservoirs and in distributing water to consumers.

Last week, residents of Indiana Creek Valley, Fayette County, sent telegrams to the governor urging him to veto the bill. They said that if the dam were built, their homes would be inundated by 300 feet of water.

The residents charged that Ware was seeking to "take the water we already have and impound it for himself."

The governor also signed bills to:

—Increase penalties for minors giving false ages to purchase liquor from $50 to $100 and boost the jail term from 60 days to six months.

—Appropriate $19,000 to the state Agriculture Department for a geological survey of soil conservation practices.

—Double sick leave pay for public school teachers from five to 10 days and make the maximum sick leave payable yearly 30 days rather than 20.

—Appropriate $80,000 to the state Historical and Museum Commission to buy Old Bradford House, Washington, Pa., for conversion to a state shrine; construct a replica of Old Fort Bedford, Bedford County, and restore the Toll House on U.S. Route 40 in Fayette County.

Nuclear Rocket Launched

By COLIN MCKINLAY

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—The Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission, in a dazzling teamwork display of things to come, today fired a nuclear-armed rocket from a fighter plane high above the Nevada proving grounds.

When the device was fired at 10 a.m. (e.d.t.) it appeared very brightly from News Nob and the fireball was visible for 15-20 seconds. The cloud formed into a doughnut shape with a tinge of pink coloring and a weird spray dropped eastward.

More than a minute later the shock wave was felt. The cloud retained its doughnut shape as it climbed and the ballerina-skirt spray began to disintegrate. At five minutes past shot time the doughnut had become a puff of salmon-tinged cotton nearly out of sight in the sky.

The rocket was launched from one of three F89 Scorpion jets at an elevation somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000 feet above the test site in an air-to-air experiment. Others like it are stockpiled at the nation's defense bases.

Crews Are Doused

The device was fired so close to the jets that the crews were doused with radiation and had to scurry to the ground for decontamination.

It was the first firing delivery of a nuclear device by a fighter plane and its impact was rated by the AEC as "only less than nominal," meaning less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

A sequence timer controlled the rocket from the time the parent plane left the Indian Springs Air Force Base 45 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The timer remotely launched the weapon and electronically detonated it after it left the parent plane.

Douglas Aircraft Co. described the rocket as its new MB1 Genie. It was fired at a theoretical target in space.

AEC officials said the rocket did not make the characteristic "swish" as it left the plane but sounded more like "beating on a washtub" as it exploded when leaving the plane.

Fire-fighting Methods Outlined At CSTC School

Latest fire-fighting methods will be outlined at the 23rd annual fire school August 19-23 at California State Teachers College.

Sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Training Institute, the school is open to all firemen whether they be paid volunteer, industrial or in civil defense. Enrollment cost is $1.

Both day and evening classes will be held. Those attending four or more classes will receive certificates approved by the Fire Service Training Public Service Institute, Lewistown.

Some of the foremost authorities on firefighting in Western Pennsylvania will serve as instructors.

Pinball

George Nichols, of Mount Independence, had testified that:

"Pinball machine players are suckers."

Nichols told the court he had played the machines "for years" and had been paid off on several occasions.

The case was being continued today before the court, sitting en banc.

The state hopes for a ruling which will label the devices as gambling equipment, thus making it possible to confiscate the machines.

Seek Compromise in Civil Rights Measure

By DAYTON MOORE

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate supporters of the administration's civil rights bill sought a compromise today that might save a least part of a hotly-disputed injunction proviso.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland called a meeting today of GOP senators for a party effort to agree on a compromise.

But it would also have to be acceptable to a sizeable bloc of northern Democrats to muster enough votes to assure being left in the bill.

The Senate moved into its 11th day of debate on the measure with final action not in sight.

More Concessions Made

Cloakroom huddles failed to produce a compromise Thursday although Knowland announced further concessions would be made on the injunction proviso — the bill's controversial Part III.

This would empower the attorney general to seek injunctions or other civil court action against conspiracies to deprive persons of any and all rights under the Constitution and the law. A federal judge could hold a violator of such an injunction in contempt and fine and jail him without a jury trial.

Supporters of the bill already have offered an amendment to meet one main objection of southern foes. This would bar presidential use of troops under a hold-over Reconstruction Era law to enforce injunctions aimed at school integration and other civil rights under Part III.

South Not Satisfied

This failed to satisfy southerners who have enlisted bipartisan support to knock out all of Part III.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Thursday he does not believe withdrawing references to troops would be "harmful to the bill," but added that he opposed any other major changes.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), co-sponsor of an amendment to kill Part III, told newsmen the compromisers were desperate to save at least a shadow of the section.

"I understand they are planning to take the guts out of Part III and leave the title," Anderson said.

But Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) said he is confident a meaningful Part III will be kept in the bill.

Bowling Center To Be Converted Into Store Rooms

The Monessen Bowling Center, which has played host to city bowlers for the past 25 years, will be converted into two store rooms, it was announced today.

August Bucci, owner of the building which houses the Bowling Center at 455 Donner Ave., said that extensive remodelling work will begin in a day or so.

Bucci said no leases have been signed yet, but that he has some prospective tenants in mind.

Th remodelling work, under contract to the Haury Brothers of Monessen, is due for completion around September 1.

For the past eight years, the Bowling Center had been operated by Joe Jannotta. He said he has no definite plans for the future, but hopes to establish a bowling business somewhere in the Monessen district.

Fayette County Radio Network Nears Completion

Fayette County's first radio network connecting 43 fire companies will be completed in a few days, it was disclosed today.

"It is practically finished," said Milton Herskowitz, chairman of the committee in charge. "Fayette County will have one of the most modern emergency systems in Pennsylvania."

Two control centers for the network are located in Uniontown, one at the County Home and the other at the Uniontown Fire Department.

The cost for the project is being shared equally by Fayette County, the 43 fire departments, the state and federal government. However the radio system will not cost the full $180,000 appropriated.

The new radio set-up received its first test recently during "Operation: Alert." The push of a single button at the control center alerted all of the county's fire stations for the civil defense test.

Upon completion, the radio system will be formally dedicated by the Fayette County Commissioners and representatives of the Fayette County Firemen's Assn.

Will Poll Newsmen on Travel to Red China

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department pitched into the job today of trying to figure out how many American reporters would go to Red China if travel restrictions on newsmen were lifted.

Indications were that some U.S. reporters will eventually be okayed for assignment on the Chinese mainland. The number and timing are still undecided.

To get a line on how many actually would go to Communist China if given the chance the State Department planned a poll. The nose-count plan grew out of a meeting Thursday of Dulles with five representatives of the news-gathering industry.

During the meeting Dulles informally offered to let a 'limited number of newsmen go to Red China for a six-months trial period.

The news executives, however, said there should be no limit other than military necessity on either the number of reporters or news facilities.

William Dwight, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., said cost alone would automatically hold down the number of U.S. reporters who would go to Red China.

The news executives attending Thursday's session were Dwight; Robert Hurleigh, president of the American Assn. of Radio and Television Correspondents; Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time magazine; J. Russell Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald, who represented Jenkins Jones, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; and Theodore Koop, president of the Radio-Television News Directors Assn.

Steel Is Helping South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP) — Steel—one of America's giant industries — is helping to spark the industrial growth and economic resurgence of the South.

Steel has done more than anything else to boom Birmingham from a wilderness crossroads into a thriving metropolitan area of 601,000 persons within little more than half a century.

Today it is known as the "Pittsburgh of the South," thanks to the "fiery gizzard."

The "fiery gizzard" was a crude blast furnace that began operating here more than 80 years ago, kicking off the growth of this industrial area. It was built by the Tennessee Coal & Railroad Co. (TCI), now one of the principal operating divisions of giant U.S. Steel Corp.

Republic Steel Corp. — third biggest in the industry — also has plants here and at Gadsden, 60 miles to the northeast.

Of the eight biggest industrial firms in Birmingham, seven are geared to iron and steel.

Key Ingredient

The fortunate combination of coal and iron ore — key ingredients in steelmaking — has triggered the growth of steelmaking in the South. This growth has meant new jobs, new wealth and less dependence on agriculture.

Arthur V. Wiebel, president of TCI, calls the Southeast and Southwest "the fastest growing region in the United States.

"There are natural resources in abundance in the South. The climate makes it easier to lure workers south than it is to entice them to industry in the North."

He said the "future of the South is bright" and that industry can make it "brighter by diligence and attention to duty.

The industrial district of Birmingham is located in the midst of the warrior bituminous coal field containing an estimated 66 billion tons. Low grade iron ore also is abundant, although it must be mixed with high grade ore imported from Venezuela.

An off-shoot industry is the manufacture of merchant coke, considered one of the top grades and the most widely distributed in the nation — going to 30 states plus Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

tion took place. One of the lie detector operator's friends reported the convict had been asked directly: "Do you think you killed Marilyn Sheppard?"

The friend reported Wedler replied: "Yes."

Herbert said an affidavit charging Wedler with the crime "would have to be backed up by documented information."

Herbert also wanted more details before making a motion for a new trial for Sheppard.

He indicated the evidence would have to be "convincing."

Find Auto Driver

Herbert also wants Wedler's picture shown to Ernest Kolofolias, a merchant seaman. Kolofolias was found in Long Beach, Calif., after a search by authorities.

Kolofolias says he hitched a ride with a man near Cleveland about the time of Mrs. Sheppard's death. He said the driver had a cut finger and blood stains on his hand.

Dr. Steven Sheppard, Dr. Sheppard's brother, has made no indication he will fly to Deland to talk with Wedler. Earlier, he said he would make the trip, but cancelled plans after the lie detector test was given Wedler.

McKeesport Man Hurt in Crash

A McKeesport man suffered cuts and bruises in an auto accident yesterday about two miles south of the Boston bridge on Route 48, State Police reported.

George Cathell, 75, of McKeesport, suffered the hurts when his car collided with a truck operated by Richard E. Albright, 32, of Sand Forks, W. Va.

Albright and a passenger in Cathell's car, Sarah Walsh, 53, of McKeesport, escaped uninjured, police said.

The accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. on a sharp curve in the highway. Cathell's car was demolished while the truck was only slightly damaged, according to police.

Couple Files Suit Over Auto Accident

A Coal Center couple has filed a damage suit in Washington County Court against Charles A. Carley, of Monongahela R. D. 2, as a result of an auto accident on Nov. 28 in Allenport.

Peter P. and Antoinette Garoski claim in their suit that both were severely and permanently injured when the defendant's machine crashed into the rear of their car.

SHE'S 'MISS U. S. A.' — Leona Gage beams out her brightest smile as Carol Morris of Iowa, last year's "Miss Universe," crowns her "Miss U. S. A." at the "Miss Universe" contest in Long Beach, Calif. Leona got there as "Miss Maryland." At 5-feet-9½ she was the tallest of U. S. contestants. She is 21, and 36-23-36.

'Miss U. S. A.' Is Mrs.; Miss Utah New Queen

BULLETIN

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Miss United States—Leona Gage, of Maryland—admitted today that she is married and the mother of two sons. She was disqualified in the Miss Universe contest, and Miss Utah was named Miss United States.

"I knew the Miss Universe rules forbade a married girl from entering the contest, but I thought I had a chance," she sobbed. "I took it and lost. Yes, I'm married and I have two children."

By ALINE MOSBY

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Judges today accepted Miss U.S.A's word that she is not married and selected her to compete with 14 international beauties for the Miss Universe title.

Rumors which were reported to have started in Baltimore that 21-year-old Miss Maryland, Leona Gage, is married, threatened to spoil Thursday night's judging in the contest. Miss Gage broke into tears when first questioned about the rumors but later emphatically denied that she is married or ever had been.

"We are taking the girl's word for it that she is not married," Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the pageant said. "We believe she is telling the truth."

Despite being shaken by rumors, Miss Gage charmed the judges into selecting her as one of the 15 semi-finalists, 14 of them foreign entrants. She and the 14 international beauties, who were among foreign beauties, will go into the semi-finals and one of the five finalists will be crowned Miss Universe tonight.

"I don't know who would want to start such rumors," Miss Gage told reporters. "I don't even have a steady boy friend."

Miss Maryland, the tallest of 76 girls who came to Long Beach last week with hopes of being named Miss Universe, explained that she broke into tears because of the 32 "pressure" of the contest.

Named to compete in the Miss Universe semi-finals were Miss Alaska, Miss Austria, Miss Brazil, Miss Canada, Miss Cuba, Miss England, Miss Germany, Miss Greece, Miss Italy, Miss Japan, Miss Morocco, Miss Peru, Miss Sweden, Miss United States and Miss Uruguay.

Leader Vetoes Move For Two Toll Bridges

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today vetoed a proposal for construction of two toll bridges over the Susquehanna River in central Pennsylvania as a "thing of the past."

The governor said the state will ask federal aid to build both spans but as free facilities.

The legislation called for construction of bridges over the river from Millersburg, Dauphin County, to Perry County and from near Holtwood and Safe Harbor, Lancaster County, to York County. Both facilities would have been toll bridges until their cost was paid off.

Leader said the "toll bridge era" in Pennsylvania ended last May when charges on 10 intrastate bridges were lifted.

"Because I believe the communities and area would be better served by free bridges which are a part of the federal aid systems, I cannot approve this bill which directs their construction as toll facilities," Leader said.

The governor said he requested the state Highways Department to request the U.S. Public Roads Bureau to approve the bridges and approaches to take advantage of the government's matching aid program.

The governor said Highways Department surveys showed construction of the spans was "feasible and warranted." He said the bridges would be of "inestimable value" for motorists and the economic well being of the counties involved.

Leader also vetoed bills to:

—Appropriate $50,000 for purchase and maintenance of Bowman's Castle, Brownsville, Fayette County, as a state historical shrine. The governor said he was informed the property was not of "any real historical significance."

Turnpike Case Nearing End

State to Wind Up Rebuttal

HARRISBURG (UP)—Prosecuting attorneys in the Pennsylvania Turnpike conspiracy trial today put the finishing touches on their case against nine men charged with an attempted $19,500,000 swindle of turnpike funds.

The state expected to devote the entire day to the testimony of rebuttal witnesses after the defense rested its case Thursday afternoon.

The 13 defense lawyers announced the completion of their case suddenly after informing the court they had "run out of" character witnesses they presented to testify to the "honesty and integrity" of the defendants.

The lawyers rested their case with the reservation that they be permitted to present further character witnesses later.

Among the 28 character witnesses who testified Thursday on behalf of former turnpike commission chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale Republican, were three county judges, a retired head of the state police, a mine foreman, and a Congregationalist minister.

The three jurists were Cyrus M. Palmer, president judge of Schuylkill County; James J. Curran, of Schuylkill County Common Pleas Court, and former Allegheny County Judge Elde W. Mashall.

Thus the trial enters its final stage after 34 days of testimony by both sides which began June 4 and compiled a 1,500,000-word record.

Seen Ending Next Week

At the completion of the Commonwealth's rebuttal at least two days is expected to be taken up by summation addresses by the two state's attorneys and lawyers for each of the defendants.

The complexity of the case led presiding Judge Homer L. Kreider to predict his charge to the jury will take about half a day, and the case is expected to go to the jury about the middle of next week.

All nine defendants face imprisonment of up to five years upon conviction of conspiracy to defraud the commission through contracts with the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, for mine filling work in the construction of the Northeastern Extension.

The state charges five top commission officials and two consulting engineers of the J.E. Greiner Co., Baltimore—former consulting firm to the commission—conspired with two top officers of Manu-Mine to milk the commission of almost 20 million dollars through the work.

In addition, the Manu-Mine officers, president Charles W. Stickler Jr., and former vice president Clayton A. Landsidle, are being tried simultaneously for "cheating by fraudulent pretenses" in obtaining the contract. The state charges the firm realized a 100 pe cent pofit on the wok which was, according to the state, "almost wholly unnecessary."

Convicted on the fraud indictment carries a penalty of imprisonment up to five years and a fine of up to $5,000.

Evans and suspended commissioner James F. Torrance, Export also are charged with misconduct in office for their part in the contract negotiation. The offense carries no specified penalty.

90% DIVORCED — Swedish actress Inger Stevens, 22, is shown just before she won a divorce in Los Angeles from her agent, Anthony Soglio, 34. They were married in 1955, and then she became Bing Crosby's leading lady, both on and off the screen. Her divorce grounds were jealousy on part of Soglio. He continues receiving his 10 per cent agent's fee, so he only parted with 90% of her.

Fund Campaign At W&J Ends; Is Big Success

The second largest annual fund drive in the history of Washington and Jefferson College has successfully ended with a record-breaking 1320 alumni contributing nearly $77,000, it was announced today by Andrew R. Cochrane, general chairman of the W. & J. Fund 1957.

The largest sum ever realized in annual giving at the college was $81,000 in 1952-53. This year's goal had been set at $75,000.

Commenting upon the support given by alumni and friends of W. & J., Cochrane says that research figures show college enrollments over the United States will double in the next ten years to about 6,000,000 students.

With college facilities already overtaxed, a serious threat to national progress will result unless the public becomes aware of the predicament and takes the initiative in forestalling it. W. & J. alumni have shown this initiative, Cochrane states.

Penn State Will Get Funds for Pay Boosts

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed legislation appropriating $29,763,400 Pennsylvania State University, more than two million dollars over his budget request.

University President Eric A. Walker immediately issued a statement from University Park indicating most of the additional money would be used for wage and salary increases.

Walker said the university actually needed 38 million dollars to cover the institution's needs in the next two years.

I would be inaccurate to say that the appropriation meets our needs adequately," Walker said. He added, however, Penn State would continue to offer the best educational opportunities possible.

"My concern for the future is deepened by the knowledge the university now turns away three of every four male applicants, five of every six female applicants, and the new appropriation makes no provision for constantly growing demands," Walker said.

The governor had asked for a $27,713,400 appropriation for the university, which Walker termed a "disaster budget" during the legislative session.

The appropriation was earmarked: $29,268,400, general maintenance; $150,000, crop and livestock research; $100,000, research and experimental investigation of petroleum problems; $70,000, research for coal by-products; $35,000, research of the slate and other non-metallic mineral industries; $32,500, for study of long-range problems affecting mineral industries; $57,500, to match industrial grants; $50,000, construction of experimental mushroom houes and research in mushroom diseases.

The governor also signed legislaion to:

—Appropriate $22,500 for increased payments to counties, townships and school districts for state and federal forest lands in their areas.

—Increase from 96 inches to 102 inches the total permissible width of trucks traveling state highways during daylight hours.

—Revise registration of bus fleet owners to require registration fees based on the total miles driven in Pennsylvania as against the total miles driven outside the state.

—Appropriate $75,000 to the George Jr. Republic Association, Grove City, for construction of new buildings and repairs to existing buildings at the school.

First Negro Takes Office in Cabinet

HARRISBURG (UP) — Andrew M. Bradley, 50, took over his new duties today as secretary of the Property and Supplies Department to become the first Negro cabinet officer in Pennsylvania's history.

The Harrisburg accountant, who served as budget secretary since the start of the administration of Gov. George M. Leader in 1955, was sworn into the $20,000-a-year post late Thursday in the presence of the governor and other leading state Democratic leaders.

Bradley, a leader in Democratic statewide politics succeeds John S. Rice, who resigned and is on a European tour with his family.

Rice, Democratic candidate for governor in 1946, reportedly stepped down as head of the state's multi-million dollar "housekeeping" agency to take advantage of retirement plans after recently disposing of large holdings in a fruit packing business in his home town of Gettysburg.

Leader also named his secretary of administration, John H. Ferguson, to take over Bradley's budget duties in addition to his present position.

Rice entered the administration January, 1956, replacing the initial Leader appointee, William D. Thomas, Sharon, who resigned after two years.

Leader praised Bradley as "without doubt" one of the finest budget secetaies in the histoy of the state. He added Badley was the "outstanding choice" for the job.

"Mr. Bradley has just the qualities that the job demands," the governor said. "He is painstakingly conscientious, he knows the problems involved, he has remarkable competence, and I don't know any man anywhere with more integrity."

The governor also cited Rice as an "outstanding public servant" and temed Feguson capable of "brilliant service." Leader said Ferguson would have no trouble handling his dual jobs during the remainder of his term because the position was largely administrative work now that the budget was finished.

Bradley, a certified public accountant, has headed the Negro division of the Democratic State Committee in every statewide election since 1940. Gaduated from Thompson Business College, he holds an honorary Doctor of Social Science Degree from Lincoln University.

The change was the second this year in Leader's cabinet. Last January John R. Torquato was fired as secretary of the Labor and Industry Department and replaced by William L. Batt Jr.

Movie Owner in Drive Against All Cigarettes

NEW YORK (UP) — There's a new sign over the candy counter in a Brooklyn movie house:

"Live Longer — Reach for a Sweet—Instead of a Smoke. Effective August 1, Sale of All Cigarettes, Plain Or Filter Tip, Shall Be Discontinued At the Avenue U Theatre."

The theater's owner - manager, Albert L. Greene, said, "I guess you could call it a one-man crusade. I hope I didn't bite off more than I can chew."

Greene said he started after the U.S. Public Health Service issued its report on the relation between smoking and lung cancer last week. He stopped smoking himself. He asked his employes to give it up.

"My assistant stopped, the matron stopped, the operators stopped, the cashiers and the doormen — they all stopped," Greene said.

There's still a smoking section in the Avenue U Theater, "But I don't want to be a party to selling them," Greene said. "Maybe if some of the customers can't buy them here they'll give it up and maybe they'll be grateful."

Like the picture Greene's showing this week, it's a "Friendly Persuasion."

Files Answer In Annexation

Donora Borough Solicitor A. J. DeMedio has filed an answer in Washington County Court to objections raised by the Carroll Twp. Supervisors over the borough's proposal to annex a 215 acre tract of land.

No date has been set for a court hearing on the annexation plan.

In 1955, similar annexation proceedings failed on a legal technicality.

The territory in question includes sections of Highland, Crest, Allen and Orchard Plans, Donora Place and Gilmore Ter.

Reduced Bus Fees in State Turned Down

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation which would have reduced registration fees for buses transporting within the Commonwealth by one half was rejected today by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor refused to accept the measure contending it would cost the state one million dollars in revenue over the next two years at a time when additional funds were needed to finance an expanding highway program.

The legislation would have reduced registration fees approximately 50 per cent in all classes of such vehicles. The fees are based on seating capacity.

The original Senate bill called for a nominal $1 registration fee for all buses operating within municipal limits in a move described by sponsors to relieve a "sick industry." However, the bill was expanded to include all buses operating in the state and the registration schedule revised.

The governor also rejected legislation to:

—Take $130,000 from the oil and gas lease fund of the Forests and Waters Department for emergency stream clearance and flood control in Emporium Borough and Shippen Twp., both Cameron County. The governor said the project was already within the authority of the department and there was no need for the bill.

—Appropriate $300,000 from the oil and gas lease fund for stream clearance and channel rectification on Connoquenessing Creek and Sullivan Run in Butler County. The governor said the Forests and Waters Department had such authority.

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. (UP)—The 65-year-old mother of pianist Liberace Thursday night was beaten by two hooded men who accosted her in her garage. She suffered possible rib fractures and bruises, police said today.

Mrs. Frances Liberace told police one of the men kicked her as she tried to flee from them, and before she fainted she heard one of them say, "Kick her again so we'll have something to laugh about later."

She was treated by a private physician who said she suffered bruises and contusions on her back, possible fractured ribs and shock. She was placed under sedatives.

Officers said there was no evidence of burglary or robbery.

'Use of Troops' Is A Red Herring

OPPONENTS of the Eisenhower administration's civil rights bill are trying to make quite a thing of the extreme legal possibilities inherent in the government's enforcement powers. Feigning holy horror, they tell us: "Why, the President could use federal troops to compel racial integration in the public schools." And we are expected to be revolted by this terrible prospect.

But of course this is nothing but another red herring to distract attention from the real issues.

Certainly the President of the United States has the power to "use troops" to maintain order and enforce the laws. He always has had this power — it is implicit in the Constitution. And Congress couldn't subtract from that power if it wanted to. Without this power in the hands of the executive, our whole scheme of government would evaporate.

President Eisenhower, of course, is a man of abundant good will. He is also a very prudent man who likes to accomodate opposing views as far as possible.

So it was not surprising that, in response to a question at his press conference, he would say that he "can't imagine any set of circumstances that would ever induce me to send federal troops. . . . into any area to enforce the orders of a federal court."

No other sensible person would try to imagine it, either. The only people who are imagining it are those who are using every device they can fashion to prevent the Negro from exercising the rights which the Constitution gives him.

* * *

THOUGHTFUL Americans are not nearly so horrified at the thought that someday some President might have to "use troops" to uphold the authority of the government as they are at the conduct of those citizens in the South who keep saying that they will never accede to a lawful decision of the U. S. Supreme Court. If you ask us, this is the really horrible aspect of the controversy over civil rights.

We do not see how any honorable man in Mr. Eisenhower's position could be more reasonable than he is being in this grave matter. As late as last Wednesday, for instance, he was saying:

"I personally believe if you try to go too far too fast in laws in this delicate field, that has involved the emotions of so many millions of Americans, you are making a mistake."

A question recurs, however, as to how far the southern die-hards will expect honorable and reasonable men to be patient while the Constitution and the laws and the authority of the government are being nullified and defied.

* * *

THE REAL issue here is not whether the President will forbear the use of troops. The issue is whether, in the absence of some meaningful legal compulsion, the white politicians of the South will ever accord to the Negro the basic rights which the Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court says are his.

Perhaps, if the southern politicians were to give the country some indication of when they expect their section to accomodate itself to the law of the land, there would be no necessity for these continuing legislative controversies over civil rights. But all the nation hears from them is bitter defiance.

Sensible people are with President Eisenhower in this. They, like he, do not want "to go too far too fast".

But that is certainly not the same as saying that they do not want to "go" at all.

Poor Guessers

ONE of the basic tenets of Communism — and socialism, too, for that matter — has always been that the capitalist system makes the rich richer and the poor poorer.

But consider these statistics developed recently by Dr. Neil H. Jacoby, dean of Harvard's business school:

In 1929 one third of all personal income in the United States went to five per cent of the population while the other 95 per cent of the people received two thirds of the income.

But by 1956, the richest five per cent of the population was receiving only 18 per cent of the personal income and the 95 per cent of the people were receiving 82 per cent of the income.

Marx and Lenin, it seems safe to say, would find this trend more than a little disconcerting. At least, it isn't the way they had things figured.

President Tito of Yugoslavia is making a 250-million-dollar test of Soviet Russia's expressed desire for better relations.

Mr. McCann

Especially since the recent purge in the Kremlin leadership, Russian Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev has said he wants to establish solid friendship with Tito.

At the same time he has sharply criticized some aspects of Yugoslav policy.

Now, evidently, Tito has decided to find out exactly where Khrushchev stands.

It has been made known that he is sending a delegation of economic experts to Moscow to ask the Soviet government to make good on two aid commitments on which it reneged.

For Industrial Projects

One was for a credit of 175 million dollars for the construction of an aluminum and electric power project. The other was for a 75-million-dollar contribution toward the building of a fertilizer factory and an electric power plant in another part of Yugohlavia.

These commitments were made last August, when the Soviet leaders were making a big bid for Tito's friendship.

The Soviet government went back on them when Tito criticized the brutal Russian army suppression of the Hungarian revolt.

It is pretty clear that Khrushchev and his fellow leaders long ago gave up any hope that they could lure Tito back into what they call the Communist "camp."

Tito has made it plain that he intends to preserve the independent Communist status that Yugoslavia attained when he broke with the late Josef Stalin in 1948 because he was tired of Russian domination.

The Soviet leaders can not be pleased with the attitude of either Tito or of Chinese Communist chiefs Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. These three make no bones about criticizing Soviet tactics when the occasion arises.

Khrushchev can not resist the impulse at times, particularly when he is taking part in a vodka party, to criticize Tito.

Uses Strong Words

For instance, during his tour of Czechoslovakia which ended Tuesday, Khrushchev spoke almost angrily against Tito's system of putting industrial enterprises under the management of councils of the workers who operate them. Some versions of Khrushchev's statement said that he called the system "stupid."

But the same day, Khrushchev intimated he might either visit Tito soon or ask Tito to visit him in Moscow. He said the men ousted in the Kremlin purge opposed friendship with Tito. Turning to a group of Yugoslav correspondents, he added "Don't write this, because I shall tell Comrade Tito myself at the first opportunity."

The fact is that the Soviet leaders need the friendship of both Tito and the Chinee Red leaders. With criticism of Russian policy showering down from countries all over the world, the Soviet regime needs as much support as it can get from the Chinese and Yugoslavs.

Tito's price for cooperation apparently is 250 million dollars.

Civil Rights Backers Split

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It probably isn't known to most of their Senate colleagues, but the Senate liberals are in a heck of a mess. After crusading for years for civil rights and being consistently defeated by the Dixiecrat-Republican coalition, they now find themselves divided among themselves and led by the Republican leader of that onetime Dixiecrat coalition.

Mr. Pearson

How deep the disagreement is came out in a secret meeting of Democratic civil rights champions called by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois. Present were Senators Anderson of New Mexico, Carroll of Colorado, Murray of Montana, Green and Pastore of Rhode Island, Kennedy of Massachusetts, Symington of Missouri, Neuberger of Oregon, and McNamara of Michigan — all Democrats.

At the start of the meeting Neuberger observed the absence of another stalwart liberal, Wayne Morse of Oregon.

"I am sorry my colleague is not present," he remarked "I would prefer to be fighting side by side with him. It is difficult for me to enter into any arrangements here with Wayne absent because, unfortunately, the newspapers in Oregon have been trying to give the impression that there is a split between us. Of course there is nothing of the kind."

"It is quite evident why Wayne is not here," replied Douglas, who was presiding "He voted against Rule 14 the other day."

"In that case, I had better excuse myself," interposed Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, "because I did too. Before I do, however, let me give you some advice.

"There are five men sitting up in the front row of the Democratic side. I want to name them in the order of their seats. Kerr (Okla.), Frear (Del.), Anderson (N. Mex.), Magnuson (Wash.), Mansfield (Mont.). They all voted against Rule 14, and you're going to need their help. You haven't got it now.

Beginning of the Split

"Then," continued Anderson, "on the second row back from the end seat is this fellow Morse. And let me tip you off, you're going to regret the day that you sent this bill to the calendar without going through the Judiciary Committee, because you are going to have to admit in the end that Morse was right."

This referred to the battle which first split the liberal Democrats—namely when Morse of Oregon argued that the civil rights bill, passed in the House of Representatives, should not be put on the Senate calendar immediately, but should go to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Other liberals argued that if sent to the Judiciary Committee, it would be blocked by Chairman Eastland of Mississippi for weeks, just as it has been blocked by him ever since January.

"I also want to make it very clear" continued Anderson, "that I have no intention of following the leadership of Knowland of California through the Senator of Illinois (Douglas).

"Furthermore, I want to make it clear that I'll have no part of the 3-to-1 ratio," said Anderson, referring to the arrangement whereby three Republicans — Dirksen of Illinois, Case of New Jersey, and Knowland on one side — met with only one Democrat, Douglas, on the other side to discuss civil rights strategy.

"Some of us tried to get civil rights passed last winter by changing cloture," reminded Anderson, "but we didn't get much help from Mr. Knowland If he wanted civil rights he could have started to work for it then. A good many Republicans would have joined us in changing cloture if Knowland had helped. But he didn't help. So I object to marching under his banner now.

"I remember," concluded Anderson, "that for many years when we did try to do something on civil rights, Bob Taft would go over and whisper with Dick Russell (Georgia) and we would be licked.

"So let's follow our own leader, not these recent Republican converts."

Washington Whirl

Fred Ford, promoted from a minor Justice Department job to be a Federal Communications Commissioner, has orders to keep congressional investigators out of FCC files. He received special instruction from his boss, Deputy Attorney General Bill Rogers, on legal tricks to keep Congress from prying into FCC secrets. . . . The Senater's No. 1 Democrat, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, has been belittling the No. 2 Democrat, Mike Mansfield of Montana, behind his back. Lyndon has been whispering around the Senate cloakroom that Mike isn't too bright. . . . Actually, the strait-laced Mansfield is less of a politician but more of a scholar than Johnson. (Mansfield used to be a history professor at the University of Montana.). . . House Speaker Rayburn is telling this one on himself. At the Truman Library dedication in Kansas City, he saw a couple eying his bald dome and overheard one comment: "I didn't know Yul Brynner was a Democrat."

Limestone Lobby

The limestone lobby won an unreported victory the other day over Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who tried to economize behind Congress' back.

Benson wanted to cut out payments to farmers for spreading lime on their soil. This increases the crop yield, which is the last thing he wants to do. His main objective is to reduce farm surpluses.

Knowing Congress favors conservation practices, however, Benson kept quiet about his plan to cut the limestone subsidy. He waited until the Senate-House conferees were supposed to have agreed on the soil-conservation budget, then issued a secret order to chop off the payments for lime spreading.

What Benson didn't learn until too late, however, was that the budget agreement had been delayed a day. Meanwhile, one of Benson's boys leaked the secret order to the National Limestone Institute, which rushed up to Capitol Hill with it.

Sen Dick Russell (D., Ga.) and Congressman Jamie Whitten (D., Miss.) were furious at Benson for trying to economize on soil conservation behind their backs. They promptly inserted a directive in the delayed Senate-House report that the Agriculture Department must continue paying farmers for spreading lime on their fields.

Important Civil Rights Questions not Answered

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The printed record of Senate judiciary subcommittee hearings on the administration civil rights bill spans nearly 1,000 pages.

Mr. Wilson

These hundreds of thousands of words, however, do not include the answers to some questions which have belatedly arisen in Senate discussion of the proposed legislation. The bill upon which the hearings of last February and March were focused never got out of the committee.

The bill now before the Senate is an identical measure already passed by the House and referred to the Senate for disposition. The bill is in serious trouble. The trouble is so serious that President Eisenhower apparently has decided on a major strategic retreat.

If the retreat takes place and the bill is shorn of its guarantee of a great miscellany of civil rights, other than the right to vote, blame may fall heavily on Eisenhower.

It is possible also that the President is retreating because he has the answers to some of the questions which have arisen around his civil rights bill.

Question No. 1 arises from the fact that the President, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and others have repeatedly said their greatest civil rights objective was to protect and guarantee the right to vote—guarantee that Southern Negroes shall vote as freely as Southern whites.

It is fair to assume the author of the bill — whoever he or they may be—did not know that was Eisenhower's prime objective. That is a fair assumption because when the chips were down the strongest and most bitterly resented enforcement procedure was withheld from the right to vote. Very emphatically the bill authorizes the President to use the Army, the Navy and the militia to enforce such civil rights as the right not to be segregated, the right to inform a federal officer of a violation of federal law and so on.

21 Specific Rights

There are 21 specific civil rights protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States, plus the right to vote.

It was this miscellany of rights, including the right of the Negro to be protected against segregation in the schools, to which the bill's authors attached the powerhouse Army and Navy enforcement machinery. Eisenhower probably knows by now why that was done and by whom. The answer may come in the Senate debate.

Brownell spent three days before the Senate judiciary subcommittee last February. When, at last, the questioning touched on the authority to use troops to enforce miscellaneous civil rights in the South, the attorney general seemed both hurt and surprised and, finally, annoyed.

The attorney general sharply complained that the questions were not properly respectful of the President of the United States on whose order the troops would march and the Navy would sail in defense of civil rights. Brownell argued that Eisenhower never would order the Army to march or the Navy to sail and, therefore, that the subcommittee should not discuss it. The attorney general indicated he would have to walk out of the hearings if the questions were pressed. That is about where the matter ended.

The Views of Others—

The Right to Vote

(From The New York Times)

The primary objective of the civil rights bill now before the Senate is, in the words of President Eisenhower's most recent formal statement, "to protect the constitutional rights of all citizens to vote regardless of race or color."

Basic to all the other civil rights that are talked about by those seeking fair and equal opportunity for the Negro and other minorities is this right to vote. As Paul Douglas of Illinois, intellectual leader of the civil rights forces in the Senate, repeatedly says, "nothing is more important to the progress of our country and to economic and political justice." Other things can and will come later. The right of free access to the ballot-box is elemental in a democracy.

In order to achieve this objective the pending bill would allow enforcement of this right to vote through the injunctive process, and without jury trial. The President points out that "we seek to uphold the traditional authority of the Federal courts to enforce their orders" and that "this means that a jury trial should not be interposed in contempt-of-court cases growing out of violations of such orders." Note the word "traditional," which is a reminder that there is nothing new about lack of jury trial in contempt proceedings.

In fact, a provision for jury trial would in some if not all Southern states destroy the effectiveness of the bill. Senator Douglas notes that jury lists in the South are composed "by law in five states and by practice in many others of those who are on the voting lists." Therefore those to whom the vote is denied would be automatically excluded from the jury. As Senator Douglas says: "The great proportion of Negroes are denied the right to vote. Because they are denied the right to vote they are ineligible to serve on juries. Because they are ineligible to serve on juries . . . they would be unable to protect their right to vote by jury action."

How do we know they are denied the right to vote in the first place? Senator Douglas has supplied the figures that tell the story. Let us look at these figures for a few of the nine Southern states whose eighteen Senators vainly voted against taking up the Administration's civil rights bill this week. Alabama: The number of Negroes registered was 10.3 per cent of those entitled to vote. In at least nine Alabama counties, each of which according to the 1950 census contains from a few hundred to a few thousand eligible Negroes, not one was registered to vote. Arkansas: Only 16.5 per cent of the eligible Negroes are registered. Mississippi: 4 per cent. South Carolina: 25.3 per cent, including a county or two without a single Negro registered. Virginia: 20 per cent. And of course the figures for registration are greater than those for actual voters.

Interference with the right to vote has occurred at times in the North as well as in the South. Property ownership has been a prerequisite; and poll-taxes have existed above as well as below the Mason-Dixon line, in Pennsylvania as late as 1933. It was a mere forty years ago that New York granted women the suffrage. But the disabilities have been falling away until now only the Southern Negro citizen is denied the ballot in significant numbers. Impairment of this constitutional right cannot and must not last much longer.

The Woman's View—

Are You Getting Old?

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) —That annual celebration which most of us would prefer to skip came my way this week.

I observed another birthday — never mind which one—in spite of myself. Friends reminded with cards, family with gifts, and the National Greeting Card Assn. carefully mailed its latest-style birthday missive. The association does this for a whole batch of newspaper folk, remembering their birthdays each year. It is a thoughtful custom they can forget for my money.

Signs of Getting Old

Betty Milburn, a newspaper friend with the Tucson, Ariz., Daily Citizen, said this reluctance to celebrate birthdays is just one of the sure signs of getting old. There are other indicatins, especially common to us females, Miss Milburn allowed during a business trip to Manhattan. She named a few, I started adding to them and hence this list.

You're getting old:

If you decide this is the year for that quiet vacation; if you didn't buy a two-piece bathing suit; if you collected Clark Gable photographs but don't dig this Tab Hunter; if you no longer plan to set the world on fire but are content to kindle a small blaze; if cab drivers call you "madam" instead of "miss"; if you've stopped keeping a diary.

How About Hair Do

If you've been considering a new hair-do for the last year but have done nothing about it; if you turn to the obituary pages first thing in your newspaper; if you're scared to wear red; if you say, "Kids today didn't have as much fun as we did when we were growing up"; if you've stopped dyeing those first strands of gray; if you still haven't gotten around to the piano lessons you promised yourself 20 years ago; if you planned to buy only a lipstick at the cosmetics counter and the clerk sold you rejuvenating and muscle-toning creams; if you'd rather go home at the end of the day than join friends for cocktails.

DeMillion 'Hound Grid Custodian

John (Corky) DeMillion, Monessen High volleyball coach, was elected Greyhound football custodian at a Board of Education meeting Wednesday evening. DeMillion will receive $400 for his new duties . . . Pitt has landed another grid standout, Bobby LaRue, Jr., who starred at Mount Lebanon High and Kiski Prep. His father is the great halfback of the Goldberg-Stebbins-Michelesen era at Pitt. PGA Tourney Gallery Following 'Old Sam'

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Sam Snead and 15 guys who, as far as the gallery is concerned, might as well be named "Joe" play the fourth round of the PGA golf championship today with every official finger in the house crossed in his favor.

They're praying that old Sambo, at 45 still the only stakes horse in the race, doesn't get bounced. Which, if you're interested, is a sad commentary on the state of "name" production in pro golf these days.

Because the fact is that without Sam the tournament won't draw flies.

This may not sound fair to such as Mike Souchak, Doug Ford, Tommy Bolt, Walt Burkemo and others of that calibre who are among the survivors. But while they were merrily walloping their way into the fourth round at Miami Valley Golf Club Thursday they were playing in virtual privacy.

It was Slammin' Sam who had most of the gallery of 6,000 trailing at his heels like the tail of a comet.

The fact is that professional golf has been coasting idly for years on the name lure of its established stars. It had 'em, too, for a while. But all of a sudden they have looked up and realized that the "names" have been fading away one by one and the replacements haven't been readied.

Even back in the blooming days of the pro game you had such as Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Paul Runyan, Tommy Armour and Leo Diegel to fill the house. Then came the era of Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Lawson Little, Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret and, that wonderful one - hoss shay, Slammin' Sam.

The PGA broke its own blue suede shoes by installing a rule some years back that youngsters had to be a pro five years before they could play in this tournament.

So among the survivors are 46-year-old Henry Ransom, 41-year-old Claude Harmon, the 38-year-old Tommy Bolt and Ted Kroll and 39-year-old Walt Burkemo. If they aren't gate attractions now, their prospects aren't very good.

Souchak is regarded as one of the "youngsters" — at 30, yet— with another "youngster" being 28-year-old Dow Finsterwald. The "baby" of the cast, a rather advanced infant, is 26-year-old Don Whitt of Alameda, Calif.

Bucs Win 14th 'One-Runner'

Maz' Hit In Ninth Cops, 6 - 5

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Chances are remote that the Pittsburgh Pirates will finish in the first division this season but they may claim the distinction of being involved in the most one-run decisions.

The Pirates lost 16 games by a single run, but notched their 14th slimedged victory Thursday with a 6-5 margin over the Chicago Cubs. A single by Bill Mazeroski scored Dick Groat to climax a four-run rally in the ninth inning.

Stage Was Set

The stage was set for Mazeroski's climactic blow when the bases were loaded with one out. Pinchhitters Ramon Mejias and Gene Freese singled and pinch-runner Johnny O'Brien scored on Dee Fondy's sacrifice.

Bob Skinner walked and Dick Groat shot a two-run triple off Turk Lown that tied the score. Then Dick Littlefield went to the mound, issued an intentional walk to pinchhitter Jim Pendleton and was immediately relieved by Jim Brosnan.

Frank Thomas, who had three singles, also was purposely passed to fill the bases and Mazeroski followed with his victory margin.

Chuck Tanner, of New Castle, Pa., accounted for two cub runs with a sixth inning sacrifice and an inside the park homer off winner Luis Arroyo in the eighth. The smash gave the Cubs a 5-2 bulge

Ernie Banks slapped an inside-the-park homer off starter Bob Purkey to open the fourth inning. It was his 17th of the season.

Thomas, Baker Single

Singles by Thomas and Gene Baker and Dick Rand's sacrifice fly gave the Pirates a first inning run and they added another tally in the fifth on two singles and a walk.

The Cubs tied the count at 2-all in the sixth on a walk by Bob Speake, a single by Walt Moryn and Tanner's sacrifice fly. They scored two more in the seventh on a single by Cal Neeman, Bobby Morgan's sacrifice, Bob Will's single and Speake's double.

Von McDaniel, sensational St. Louis Cardinal rookie bonus pitcher will try for his fifth victory tonight in his Forbes Field debut. Vernon Law, trying for his sixth victory, will hurl for Pittsburgh

New Eagle Clubs Charleroi, 12-5

New Eagle surprised slumping Charleroi with a 12-5 decision at New Eagle last night in a slugfest.

A total of 23 hits were garnered by both teams, New Eagle getting 12, including homers by Fred Coz, Bob Gondos and Lou Sepe and doubles by Gene Uhlman and Jess Leach. Roy Barli and Carl Witmyer doubled for Charleroi.

Vic Furiga scattered the 11 hits he gave Charleroi to keep his mates in front after they supplied him with a 7-2 lead in the second inning.

The Charleroi-New Eagle tilt was apparently the only one played in the Mon Valley League last night as no report was heard on the West Newton-Fayette City clash.

LL Americans Bow To Brownsville, 11-1

Both Monessen Little League All-Star teams can not settle back to playing in their local leagues after the American nine bowed to Brownsville's Americans, 11-1 at the Annex here last night.

The National nine lost a decision to McKeesport earlier in the week to also drop from playoff competition.

Last night at the Annex, Brownsville's Tom Yarnovich fashioned a three-hitter which stopped the locals cold until the sixth when they managed to push one run across.

Meanwhile heavy hitting Brownsville garnered 17 safe blows and combined with loose fielding spelled defeat for Monessn's playoff entry.

Only Extra-Base Hit

Tom Hotz was the only local batter to hit for extra bases clouting a double in the sixth. Richard Steele and John Tweardy were the only other Monessen batters to hit safely.

Brownsville's ace hitter Bob Moore lived up to his name when he clouted what many observers believe to be the longest homer ever by a Little Leaguer in Monessen.

The locals looked good for the first two innings making a double play in each of the innings to stop Brownsville rallies.

Action will resume locally Monday with the schedule to be announced here tomorrow.

Robin Roberts Draws Suspension

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Robin Roberts, big right hander for the Philadelphia Phillies, said today he was "sorry" as he started the first day of a three-day suspension for almost slugging umpire Jocko Conlan.

Roberts, known around the league for his mild manners and gentlemanly ways, was slapped with his first suspension and a $50 fine Thursday by National League President Warren Giles. It stemmed from a disagreement between Roberts and Conlan over a decision he made Wednesday night during the Phils - Braves game.

ULBA in Upset Win Over PNA

Last-place ULBA pulled a stunning upset in City Softball League action last night when the tail-enders defeated second-place PNA by a convincing 4-1 count.

Winning hurler "Slick" Shilling pitched shutout ball until the fifth frame when Joe Gladys homered for the only PNA run.

ULBA took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a single by Mike Kerestes, who advanced on a fielder's choice and scored on Jim Lewitsky's one-bagger.

Three-run Fourth

A three-run fourth was the clincher, however, as the winners plated their markers on Ray Matozzi's homer with two runners on base.

"Binks" Adamczyk tossed seven hit ball for the winners, ordinarily good enough to win but not against the four-hit job by Schilling.

"Brody" Pfiester of ULBA was the only batter for either team to garner more than one hit, getting two singles.

Action continues tonight with the Myford's battling MPSA.

Redstone 'Out', Clairton Invited; Officers Elected

Five teams now comprise the Mon Valley Football Conference following a reorganization meeting this week at Charleroi, it was announced today. But it may be the Big Six again before the '57 season opens.

The missing member of the Big Six, as the conference has been known the past several years, is Redstone High School.

Redstone Not Invited

Principals of Monessen, Charleroi, Donora Monongahela and Brownsville High Schools announced after the reorganization confab that Redstone had not been extended an invitation to participate in the conference this season, reducing the membership to five schools.

Clairton High School, however, has been asked to replace the Blackhawks as the sixth conference team.

The reason advanced for not including Redstone in the reorganization plans was the "lack of interest shown by Redstone when the conference constitution meetings were being held."

Two Votes Needed

Under the new constitution of the conference, drawn up some time back by the principals, a team can be voted out of the conference if two members vote against the school involved. The necessary two votes, perhaps more, were cast against the 'Hawks in the secret balloting.

Should Clairton accept the invitation to join the conference the Bears will not be eligible for the conference title competition until scheduled by every member of the league, as called for by the constitution. At least three schools now play the Bears, Charleroi, Monongahela and Brownsville.

The present member schools of the conference feel that the schedules can be adjusted by next season, MHS Principal Henry Furio stated today.

Elect New Officers

New conference officers were also elected at this week's meeting. Dr. Michael Herk, of Donora, was named to head the group. John Conte, of Monongahela is the vice-president. Monessen Principal Henry Furio was named secretary and Edwin Luse of Charleroi, treasurer.

The principals will meet with Mon Valley Sportswriters here on August 6 to explain the workings of the new constitution and discuss other problems which must be ironed out under the new set-up.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Underclubbing

Say you are playing a short hole, 150 yards. Your opponent takes a six-iron and hits the green. You feel you should use a five-iron — but, you say to yourself, "If that so-and-so can get there with a six-iron, so can I." So you take the six, and you do get there. But, because you had to almost leave your feet to swing hard enough, you yank the ball far to the left.

The assumption that your choice of an iron should be based on the highest-numbered one with which you can possibly reach the green as is stroke-wasing an assumption as you could possibly assume.

Take an iron with which you can reac the green COMFORTABLY. Then you're free to concentrate on playing the stroke properly.

There is also, of course, the danger of taking too much club, which may cause you to spoil the shot by letting up. But underclubbing is a far more prefalent fault than overclubbing.

Rosewall Upsets Hoad, Spoils Tourney Plans

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP) — Professional tennis promoter Jack Kramer, admittedly not making as much money as he thought he would with his Tournament of Champions at staid Forest Hills, privately rooted for a come-back by Lew Hoad today which might get him "out of hock."

Hoad, whom Kramer paid $125,000 to turn pro a couple of weeks ago, ruined what may have resulted in a sellout on Sunday when he lost to fellow Aussie Ken Rosewall, 6-3, 9-7, 4-6, 6-3, Thursday in what was regarded as a major upset.

Hoad, the crew-cut Wimbledon champion, is scheduled to meet Pancho Gonzales, the world's top tennis player on Sunday in the final round. The loss to Rosewall left Hoad with a 2-1 record at the completion of three rounds and unless he can whip Tony Trabert Saturday, Sunday's match with Pancho will amount to nothing more than a warm-up for their world-wide tour which begins in January.

Meanwhile, Gonzales ran his unbeaten string in this tourney to three by defeating Frank Sedgman, 5-7, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

No matches were scheduled today.

Braves Now Full Game in Front in National League

By MILTON RICHMAN

Note to those irate Milwaukee fans who hanged Fred Haney in effigy the other day: It's okay, fellas, you can cut him down now.

The suddenly steamed - up Braves, winners in six of their last eight games, are a full game ahead of the National League pack today so that should make everything huuky-dory with all Milwaukee burghers right now.

The Braves defeated the Phillies, 4-2, Thursday night as catcher Del Rice drove in three of Milwaukee's runs with a home run and a single. Bob Buhl went 8 2-3 innings to gain his 10th victory, with rookie Don McMahon coming in to strike out Harry Anderson for the final out. Curt Simmons was the loser.

Brooklyn remained 1½ games off the pace by beating St. Louis, 10-9, in an 11-inning contest, while Cincinnati nipped the Giants, 2-1, and Pittsburgh defeated Chicago, 6-5.

Yanks Running Away

The Yankees opened up a five-game lead in the American League, their biggest margin of the year, with a 3-2 victory over Detroit, as Baltimore rallied for five runs in the ninth to lick the second-place White So, 6-2. Boston beat Kansas City, 3-1, and Washington blanked Cleveland, 4-0.

Gil Hodges' 12th grand - slam homer of his career was the highlight of the Dodgers' victory. That blow tied him with Ralph Kiner and Rogers Hornsby for the all-time National League leadership and it came in the last of the ninth to tie the score after St. Louis had pushed across seven runs in the top of the inning. Duke Snider, who homered in the third inning, doubled in the 11th and scored the winning run on Ed Kasko's error. Roger Craig was the winner.

Gus Bell provided Cincinnati with enough runs to win when he hit a two-run homer off Stu Miller in the third inning. Johnny Klippstein held the Giants scoreless until Bobby Thomson opened the ninth with a homer. When Ed Bressoud followed with a single, Raul Sanchez relieved Klippstein and got the final three outs.

The Pirates won their game from the Cubs with a four - run rally in the ninth. Bill Mazeroski's infield single with the bases loaded scored Dick Groat with the winning run. Ernie Banks and Chuck Tanner each hit inside-the-park homers for the Cubs. Reliever Luis Arroyo was the winning pitcher.

Southpaw Billy Hoeft of the Tigers was working on a 2-0 lead when he ran afoul of a three-run rally by the Yanks in the eighth. With two out Jerry Coleman singled and Mickey Mantle walked, Yogi Berra then singled for one run and Hank Bauer doubled for two more. Al Cicotte, the third of four Yankee pitchers, gained the victory.

Pinch Single Wins

Billy Goodman's pinch single with the bases loaded, good for two runs, was the big blow in Baltimore's ninth - inning assault against lefty Jack Harshman of the White Sox. Oriole relief ace George Zuverink gave up one hit in the last two innings after taking over for starter Billy O'Dell to post his ninth triumph. Walt Dropo homered for Chicago.

A pair of errors by Kansas City third-baseman Hector Lopez enabled the Red Sox to score two unearned runs in their victory over the A's. Tom Brewer hurled a five-hitter for his 11th win. Billy Martin homered for the Athletics' only run in the third inning. Tom Gorman was the loser.

Camilo Pascual of the Senators pitched no-hit ball until Russ Nixon singled in the seventh inning and although the Indians collected two more singles, the Cuban right hander had little trouble registering his 11th victory. The Senators shelled rookie Stan Pitula for 13 hits and knocked him out with a three-run outburst in the seventh.

Flam, Althea In Semi-finals

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (UP) — Favorites Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Wimbledon Queen Althea Gibson today led a field of survivors into the semifinal round of the National Clay Courts tennis championships.

Flam, No. 1 seed in the men's competition, will shoot for his fourth straight victory at the River Forest Tennis Club, when he meets Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio. Flam won his third straight-set match Thursday in eliminating David Harum of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-2 and 9-7.

Top - seeded Miss Gibson, New York City, was not expected to encounter much trouble in disposing of Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., in a semifinal women's match. Miss Gibson breezed to a 6-1, 6-3, quarter-final win over Donna Floyd of Arlington, Va., in Thursday's round.

It's Official—Giants Plan Leaving New York City

NEW YORK (UP)—It's official! The Giants are clearing out of New York and heading for San Francisco where they plan to open for business next April.

Club President Horace Stoneham put it right on the line during a Polo Grounds' press conference Thursday. He said this will be the Giants' last year in New York. And he cited "a steady decrease in income" along with "transportation and parking problems" as the main reasons for moving.

The only major detail still to be ironed out, Stoneham said, is the financial proposition San Francisco city officials will offer the Giants.

Frisco Mayor Pleased

In Los Angeles, Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, obviously pleased by Stoneham's statements, said he planned to leave for New York tonight where he intends to confer with the Giants' president.

Stoneham said he was going to recommend to the Giants' board of directors that the club set up shop in San Francisco next season "providing we get a good deal from that city."

San Francisco officials, it is known, are prepared to meet the Giants' terms.

Stoneham said the Giants would be interested in paying 6 or 7 per cent of the gate receipts as the rental fee for a ball park in San Francisco.

TV Not Chief Lure

As for the potential television revenue in San Francisco, Stoneham insisted that was not the chief lure for the Giants.

"Pay or toll TV, or whatever you call it, is not the prime reason for our wanting to move," he said. "True, we are being offered more money than we get now from our television sponsor, but if we get a good deal in San Francisco, we'll take it even without that closed-circuit TV."

Stoneham said the Giants would be willing to play in the present Seals' stadium until a new one is built.

Children Under 10 Barred at Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — Children under 10 years of age will be barred from Wheeling Downs Race Track beginning next Monday, General Manager Robert Leavitt announced Thursday.

Leavitt said the new ruling is necessary because of the high number of lost children and resulting confusion.

Anti-Trust Probe Hits Farm System

WASHINGTON (UP) — House anti-trust investigators fixed their scrutiny today on the farm system of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers — the biggest in the major leagues.

Fresco Thompson, vice president in charge of the Dodgers' 14 minor league clubs, was scheduled to testify as the House Anti-Trust Subcommittee completed its baseball hearings.

There will be a change of pace next week when the seven - man group turns its attention to professional football. Hockey and basketball will get a going - over later.

Matthew Fox, president of Skiatron TV, Inc., told the subcommittee Thursday his firm could begin pay TV in San Francisco, Los Angeles and the New York City metropolitan area next spring if it gets franchises.

Under Fox's proposal the viewer would pay $3 a month in "subscription fees" plus a charge for each program he watches. A fee of 50 cents to $1 for a baseball game has been discussed.

Equals Record

AINTREE, England (UP)—Jean Behra of France equalled Stirling Moss' record for the Aintree track Thursday when he drove a Maserati around the three-mile circuit in 2:00.4 minutes for an average speed of 89.70 m.p.h.

Bomb Threat Grounds Three Overseas Planes

NEW YORK (UP) — A telephoned bomb threat by an unidentified woman prompted the grounding of three Air France passenger planes Thursday night.

No bomb was found on any of the planes.

The woman telephoned the airline's reservation office here at 9 p.m., saying there was a bomb aboard an Air France plane. She then hung up.

The airline immediately ordered all three of its planes that had left New York International Airport Thursday to land at the nearest airports.

One of the planes, bound for Paris with 59 passengers, was about 140 miles east of Cape Cod. It put down at Logan Airport in Boston. The passengers were removed, placed in automobiles and taken to a Boston hotel where they spent the night.

A second plane, also Paris-bound, landed at Sydney, Nova Scotia, with 29 passengers. It later continued the flight as did the third craft which, bound for Mexico City, put down at Dannelly Field in Montgomery, Ala., with 58 passengers.

Army's Package Power Plant Is Successful

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today the Army's package power plant has successfully completed a 700-hour test during which it generated enough electricity to serve 300 to 400 homes for one year.

The plant, built at Fort Belvoir, Va., by Alco Products, Inc., is the forerunner of small nuclear power reactors designed to supply power to remote military bases. Components of such plants would be flown to far places, such as the Thule, Greenland, base and there assembled.

"The successful completion of this test," the AEC said, "has confirmed the adaptability and reliability of nuclear power plants for such applications."

For 600 hours of the 700-hour test the plant generated electricity at a rate above designed capacity. Total production was 1,181,000 kilowatt hours. Shutdowns totaling only eight hours were required for adjustments and repairs.

What Can Church Members Do To Put Their Beliefs to Work

(Author of this week's religous column is editor of the Episcopal Churchnews Magazine and has recently been chosen to be dean of St. John's Cathedral in Denver. He raises the question whether Christianity can get too "popular" and what church members should do to relate their belief's to the real problems of the modern world.)

By DR. WILLIAM S. LEA

Thoughtful Christians all over the world are concerned about the relevance of the Christian gospel as it is being proclaimed today to the real problems of the modern world.

At times the leaders seem uncertain and confused about both the general strategy of the church and the practical means by which the Christian work is to move forward. This has started many groups throughout the country to thinking about and to discussing the church's fundamental purpose. This would seem simple enough: Namely, to glorify God, to win the lost and to sanctify the faithful. But for most people today such expressions are mere words. It becomes increasingly clear that no new verbalisms can meet the deep-felt need for a new and more relevant approach.

Christians are concerned about the church's task despite what is obviously a kind of religious revival in America. Church membership, church attendance, and church building have reached new highs.

Recalls History

The more sensitive leaders point out, however, that some of the saddest chapters in church history were written when Christianity was extremely popular and "religious" enthusiasm ran very high. They remind us of the days of religious persecutions or the sorry times which followed the establishment of Christianity as the official religion of the Roman Empire. They warn us of the real dangers which could follow if Christianity gets too "popular" today.

It is against such a background. and out of this concern, that the really dedicated church leaders are considering the problem of contemporary Christian strategy. There have been few clearly defined answers yet and no universally accepted principles, but there are, nevertheless, many hopeful signs.

Underneath the surface, not yet widely understood or accepted, is an emerging pattern which can be dimly discerned. A new and more vital set of basic principles could emerge which might spark one of the most significant advances in the church's long story of struggle, triumph, and disappointment.

Suggests Seven Steps

We suggest that there are seven steps which are necessary if this new program is to be effective and relevant to the real world in which men live today. There is nothing really new or startling about them. They may seem obvious. It is the obvious, however, which we too often miss. Here are the steps in the development of this new strategy for the Christian church:

—The Gospel must be acted out and not just proclaimed. The Abbe Micheneau has said that "the parish church must be the show window of God's love." This means, in ordinary terms, that we must demonstrate our product if we ever expect to market it. We have to "transfer our religion from our mouths to our muscles."

—Evangelism and the church's mission begin at home. (But it doesn't end there.) Our emphasis must be first intensive, and then extensive. It is really easier to take the Gospel to the "heathen" in far away places than to the disillusioned friends at home who may have been inoculated with so many small doses of 'Christianity' that they are immune to the real thing."

—Every layman must also be a Christian minister. This is more than the "priesthood of all believers." It grows out of the fact that the church is commissioned to continue the whole ministry of Christ. In this sense the church is "the extension of the incarnation."

Gospel For Society

—The Christian Gospel is not just for individuals but for society and culture as well. The center of interest varies from age to age. The dominating concern of our day is the problem of human relationships — between individuals, classes, races, and nations.

—The need to recognize the principle of contagion. "Christianity is more often caught than taught." This means that we do not often win converts by argument. Perhaps the process of conversion can best be started in small groups, in "cells" if you like.

—As Archbishop Temple has reminded us, God is not interested in "religion." The world "religion" is not a Biblical word at all. Jesus talked about God-centered living, not about "religion." This word "religions" too often means the compartmentalization of life.

—The need to proclaim the principle of redemption. The Christian Gospel is aimed at the redemption of the whole creation, 'a new heaven and a new earth," and a great society of new men in Christ. This means far more than just extricating individuals out of this chaotic and sinful world.

Christian evangelism can be defined only in these grand terms. It is a cosmic enterprise.

House Approves U. S. Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (UP)—A House committee today approved a $530,000,000-a-year pay raise for the government's 950,000 classified employes despite President Eisenhower's opposition.

The measure cleared the Post Office and Civil Service Committee by a 14-10 vote.

It would provide an 11 per cent pay boost. No employe, however, would get more than a $1,000 raise nor get his salary raised above $16,000 a year.

A separate bill raising pay of postal workers by 12 per cent is scheduled for House action and almost certain passage next Monday.

Enactment of both pay boosts would add an estimated 850 million dollars a year to the cost of operating the federal government.

Eisenhower has opposed any general pay raise as inflationary.

Leader Vetoes Bill to Forbid All Out-of-staters

HARRISBURG (UP) — The so-called "anti-carpetbagger" legislation covering gubernatorial appointments to top level state jobs has been vetoed by Gov. George M. Leader.

Leader said he rejected the bi-partisan measure because it would "surround" Pennsylvania's chief executive with "unrealistic restrictions" and further handicap his appointing powers.

"If the exacting assignments of modern state government are to be discharged with competence, we must be ready to bring to bear on our problems the best brains we can find, anywhere," Leader said.

The legislation provided that state residents be considered first for top level appointments. It specified that when out-of-state persons were named the governor would have to show that no Commonwealth resident was qualified and available for the job.

The legislation cleared the General Assembly at the insistance of Senate Democrats who clashed with the governor over his apointment to high office of several out-of-state men.

Army to Make Second Big Cut

WASHINGTON (UP)—Informed sources said today the Army expects to make a second 50,000 man cut in its strength possibly by next June.

The new cut plus the 50,000 man cut ordered this week would reduce the Army to 900,000 men—the same strength as the Air Force will have at that time.

The Army announced Wednesday night that it will trim its monthly draft calls as a result of the first 50,000-man cut. It said it could not say at this time how much the draft calls will be reduced.

Business in State Reaches New High in May

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) — General business in Pennsylvania during May reached a new high for the month, according to the Bureau of Business Research of the Pennsylvania State University.

The bureau reported the index of business during the month at 183 compared to 173 in April and 173 in May of 1956. The index is based on bank debits, factory payrolls and industrial power sales. The period 1947-1949 is used as a standard for measurement with an index of 100.

Categories which climbed to new May records included bank debits, telephones, postal receipts, building contracts, department store sales, and factory payrolls.

Series that showed losses from a year ago included bituminous coal production, carloadings, street railway traffic, eastern district steel production, hotel business and factory hours.

Areas that showed a gain in general business in May over a year ago and the percentage of the gain included: Allentown 7, Bethlehem 10, Easton 6, Erie 5, Harrisburg 6, Lancaster 5, Philadelphia 8, Pittsburgh 9, Reading 5, Wilkes-Barre 6, and York 1.

Masontown Police To Face Hearings

Two police officers in Masontown will be given a formal hearing Saturday afternoon before a Police Civil Service Commission on charges that they neglected their duty and acted in a manner unbecoming to an officer.

The Commission heard testimony earlier in the week from former Chief Pete Smargie and Patrolman Thomas McWilliams who are seeking to revoke charges made against them by council.

If the commission's findings should uphold the council decision, then the officers may appeal to a court.

He Should Worry

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Nick Joseph who died two years ago today, July 19, 1955.

Years of sacrifices, little of play,
Loving and giving and smoothing the way,
Life is too short, Father, ever to pay;
Strong in adversity, ready to do,
Gentle, unselfish, a friend ever true,
Our proudest possession, dear Father, was you.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our friend, Mrs. Mary DeMichaele, who died eight years ago today, July 19, 1949.

It's lonesome here without our friend Mary,
And say the weary way,
For life is not the same to us,
Since she was called away.
Gone from us that smiling face,
Those carefree happy ways,
The heart that won so many friends,
In bygone happy days.
Sadly missed by her friends, Mrs. Theresa Parente, Mrs. Theresa Dodaro, Mrs. Frances Cocco, Mrs. Rose Sabol

In loving memory of our father, John Gombo, Sr., who died two years ago today, July 19, 1955.

Little did we know that morning,
The sorrow the day would bring.
The end was sudden, the shock severe;
To part with you, father, the one we loved so dear.
We did not know the pain you had, or heard your final sign.
We only know that you had left us without a last goodbye.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Many a lonely heartache after a lonely tear.
You have passed beyond our love and care,
But not beyond our thoughts and prayers.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Father dear, how we long for you.
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Durmis and daughter, Maryann

Worry Over Grammar Been With Us Always

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Dr. Bergen Evans, host to CBS-TV's "The Last Word".)

By BERGEN EVANS

NEW YORK (UP) — Judging from letters that we receive at "the last word" office, hundreds of thousands of American mothers are afraid that TV is having a bad effect on their children's language.

What with the slop of crooners, the tough talk of the private eyes, the pardner-prattle of the westerns and the imbecilities and sinful syntax of the comedians, the messages of mom and the schoolmarm are pretty well drowned out.

It's probably always been that way. Popular entertainment simply wouldn't be popular if it weren't in the vernacular and if it didn't carry some element of defiance of the rigid properties.

One can imagine the concern of a 14th Century countess whose son was listening to the stuff that fellow Chaucer was reading aloud. The man was definitely middle class. You could hear the London dialect in every word he spoke. And even if you couldn't, it didn't matter; after all, it was English he spoke. Aristocratic people spoke Norman French.

Shakespeare Appears

Then 200 years later it was Shakespeare. The man was almost illiterate. He had little Latin, they said, and less Greek. And apparently, no knowledge of grammar at all. He had queens say "it's me" instead of "it is I" and princes remark that this would "learn" us.

After Shakespeare's death, the better-thinking element closed the theatres and saw to it that there were plenty of moral diatribes for the young to read. But somehow they didn't take to them and seemed actually to enjoy the indecent comedies of the restoration.

Even the great Dr. Johnson couldn't stop it. He tried to, poor man. Worked seven long years on a huge dictionary. Published it in 1755 in two immense volumes. You could have knocked a horse down with either volume. But he admitted in the prefix he was licked. He said the language couldn't be "fixed."

Always Changing

It was changing all the time and would keep on changing. It seems that people who speak the language every day account for 9900 per cent of its use. And all they want is to make their meaning known and make love and make money and get a laugh when they want to be funny.

Whereas those who write and those who read and especially those who formulate "rules" of grammar account for only 1-100 of one 1 cent; and although they are "right" and everybody else is "wrong", the odds are against them.

You could trace the thing right on down through Dickens and that awful book, "Huckleberry Finn." There were lots of fine people writing wonderful English — like Walter Pater and Henry Van Dyke. But for some reason the young didn't profit by them. They seemed to prefer George Ade and W. C. Fields and Sinclair Lewis.

And now it's television! Will it never end?

No.

Engagement of Princess Rumors Sweeping Britain

LONDON (UP)—Reports that Princess Margaret's engagement to a handsome Irish peer would be announced today sent dozens of newsmen flocking to Buckingham Palace. But their all night vigil outside the cold grey walls was in vain.

Nothing happened.

The rumors still persisted, however, that Margaret's interest in 24-year-old Lord Patrick Beresford was something out of the ordinary.

Reports that an engagement announcement would be made after a private dinner-dance given at the palace by Queen Elizabeth II began at a palace garden party attended by 8,000 guests Thursday.

Later it was learned Lord Patrick originally had been one of the dinner guests, but had called to say he couldn't make it.

What to Do if Insects Get into Your Pantry

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Few things are more annoying to a meticulous homemaker than finding insects in the pantry. Ants, flies, meal worms, weevils and grain and flour beetles ruin thousands of tons of food each year.

From a health standpoint as well as from one of economy, you've got to protect your home from these pests.

While ants especially like sweets, such as spilled syrup, the weevils, beetles and moths seem to prefer grains and flour.

Once they enter a pantry, they spread like an army through crackers, nuts, cereals, flour, spaghetti and macaroni products.

Chocolate is enticing, too, especially to flies.

The best way of protecting your pantry or food cabinets from these hordes is to keep the shelves clean. If food is accidentally spilled, wipe it up right away, paying particular attention to cracks and corners.

If, unfortunately, some of these insects do attack your food shelves, here's what to do:

Remove all food from the shelves and place it where the insecticide you must use can't reach it. Carefully vaccum or brush the shelves clean. Then wash and dry them and finally, spray them with a 5 per cent DDT solution.

For ants, one of the most effective insecticides is chlordane.

Don't, however, place this on your food shelves. Rather, use a 5 per cent powder or 2 per cent spray solution and apply it to the area where the ants enter the house.

The common housefly probably spreads more disease than any other insect. He's your enemy no matter where he is, inside or out. Kill every one you find, no matter how you do it.

Insects in some foods does not necessarily mean foods are spoiled.

St. Lawrence Seaway Is Changing Many of the Ideas of the Midwest

(The fifth of five dispatches by a UP correspondent who toured the route of the St. Lawrence Seaway, interviewing officials.)

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — What is the St. Lawrence Seaway going to do for America?

Let the men who know it most intimately speak in United Press interviews of its limitations and its great promise.

First, Lewis G. Castle, the Duluth, Minn., banker who is administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., headquartered in Washington:

"The Seaway cannot help but add greatly to the economic value of the Great Lakes area and the national economies of Canada and the entire United States.

"There will be a period of readjustment (for the railroads and eastern ports) but the growth of population and the increase in import and export trade will require all the transport of the country. The Seaway is going to add assets and resources to our country that will help rather than injure any so-called competitors.

"I have tried to warn that not every port city on the Great Lakes can be a world port. It would be unwise to go ahead without close scrutiny. I have urged an element of restraint.

"The tolls situation is still under study. We are confident that it is going to be worked out satisfactorily for the users and will invite traffic. We have a full sense of obligation to the users.

"The initial enthusiasm (for the Seaway) still prevails. Nothing has stirred the imagination of the American people like this project. A lot of people who oppose it are now enthusiastic about the Seaway."

Industry Main User

N. R. Danielian, president of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Assn. and chairman of the Seaway Users Committee, on tolls:

"Industry will be the main user, up to 80 per cent of its potential capacity. Industry will use it if it is going to be more economical. This will depend greatly on the toll charged.

"The Seaway is going to be a success or failure depending on whether it attracts bulk cargo like grain and coal. This is a matter of cents, nickels and dimes rather than dollars.

"The dramatic thing is the tremendous industrial expansion unleashed by the Seaway project. The Midwest will remain the hub of heavy industry. There was a danger it was going to lose it as a result of the depletion of iron ore.

"The primary effect of the Seaway will be the improvements for domestic trade. This is the key to the Seaway.

"A big educational job lies ahead. I favor factual exposition to propaganda. The ports must be able to demonstrate to a man that he can make and save money. The ports must be able to act as well as talk.

Many Out On Limb

"Many port directors and mayors went out on a limb. It is pathetic how some of the small towns have fallen for propaganda. But there is a long-range possibility for them in industrial development."

Lionel Chevrier, first president of the Canadian Seaway Authority, interviewed in Ottawa:

"The Seaway is going to add 100 million dollars a year to the value of goods and services in Canada. There will be industrial development from one end of the Seaway to the other. The (results) will be bigger because the United States has come into it. The Americans didn't give a hoot. They were looking south. Now they are looking north . . so the cost is doubling! Or trebling! It will be more than worth it."

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago: "The Seaway will make us the inland port of the world. We expect tremendous growth, expansion and building. . .I favor cooperation with other lake ports There is no reason to run mad competing with each other. We are sister cities who can help one another and approach it in unity."

Early Expansion Seen

Harold M. Mayer, professor of geography at the University of Chicago, an author and expert on the Seaway: "I believe the Seaway will be used at virtual capacity from the outset and within 10 years there will be pressure for expansion. The commercial and industrial development around the lakes is going to be tremendous.

"The Seaway will not make Chicago the metropolis of the world but it will let it compete effectively. The metropolitan population should increase to eight million in 1975 but it won't pass New York. Chicago is the top-ranking city for a one million square mile area which is responsible for the principal products used in American foreign trade. The Seaway will be a major factor in enabling the Midwest to overcome the disadvantages of its inland position.

"New York and Washington are and will be where the major decisions are made. But the main axis of the United States is New York and Chicago, and it will continue to be so. Chicago's power in this axis will increase, without ever passing New York.

Some Disadvantages

"In terms of the American way of life, in the long run the Seaway might bring a net loss in quality. It may create more problems than it will solve — the influx of lower-paid workers, the flight to the suburbs, population pressures, racial tensions, the unplanned growth of suburbs, a less well-informed city population which tends to help machine politics flourish.

"In Chicago a non-profit foreign trade training center has been established, along with new foreign consulates. Airlines offer direct services to Europe and South America without stopping in New York. Major banks have established foreign exchange and foreign trade departments.

"In the last three or four years there has been an increasingly cosmopolitan outlook. Newspapers are softening their isolationism. There is more coverage of world affairs.

"The attitude of the Midwest is changing. This is one of the most significant things about the Seaway."

Young Stevenson, New Khan, Friends

Young Stevenson, son of Adlai Stevenson, is working as purser aboard the liner President Polk. He said Prince Karim "is my best friend" and that they met three years ago as freshmen at Harvard.

Emergency Care Chief Is Named

Miss Eicherly, a captain in the U.S. Army Nurse Corps in the Pacific Theater during World War II, replaces Mrs. Gweneth Zarfoss, Harrisburg, who resigned recently.
